

An Introduction to Using Canva

Created by: Lianna Lee, Tug Hill Tomorrow Land Trust; 03-20-16

- Objective: Learn how to use Canva to create memes for social media, posters and good news postcards.
- What you need:
 - A Canva account. As a Land Trust you qualify for a free pro account.
 - Create a basic account here: <https://www.canva.com/>
 - Then set up your pro account here: <http://bit.ly/1R6pusj>

TIP: Have your 501c3 papers ready to email Canva, may take up to 24 hours for approval)

1

Before You Start

- Gather the photos you would like to use in one folder on your desktop
- Write your text in advance in a word doc, and keep word count in mind
- Use the colors from your logo wherever possible. Green & blue are also good color choices because people associate them with being outdoorsy.
- Simple is usually better

Tips—Make sure:

- The text is high contrast (this example would be too dark)
- You avoid impacting the emotional impact of the photo (might be better to have the text on the bottom).
- The text is large enough to read on a phone.

Because of you and your support, we are able to offer help to families by housing horses while they recover and rebuild from these devastating natural disasters. The recent fires may have occurred in Lake and Calaveras Counties, but the recovery effort touches all of us.

- ◇ Over the years, your support has ensured that Rush Ranch—owned and managed by the land trust—remains a working ranch and natural area, continuing our ranching heritage and protecting important habitat.
- ◇ Now your support is allowing us to provide a place where families who have lost their barns can temporarily house their horses.
- ◇ Volunteers from Access Adventure have offered to help care for the horses while they are at Rush Ranch and area farmers have offered to provide hay.
- ◇ Businesses, organizations, and people like you are doing what they can to provide money, supplies, food, shelter, and hope.

If you know someone who needs a place to temporarily house their horses or needs hay for feed, please put them in touch with us. Thank you for caring!

Together we can help families, wildlife, and farms affected by these fires. Contact Nicole Byrd, Executive Director at 707-432-0150; or Nicole@solanolandtrust.org.

Thanks to you, and growing community support, some very special places were recently conserved.

- Three ranching families asked for our assistance and voluntarily conserved their lands. This helps keep the land in production and in the family. It also helps our local economy.
- Thousands of acres of important habitat for elk, mule deer, and the Gunnison sage-grouse are forever conserved; from sagebrush flats along the San Juan Skyway, to ranches along Weber Creek and vast open spaces in western Dolores County.
- Additionally, we hosted free educational programs in partnership with three local landowners to help inspire young people and connect real-life experiences with work at school.

All told, 6 properties and 3,400 acres were protected last year.

Together, we are making southwest Colorado a better place to live, work, and play!

Tips for Postcards

- You want to stand out, what is the “job” of the postcard?
- How are you friendly and inviting?
- Is it easy to skim?
- What do you want people to feel, do or remember?
- Use 5” x 7” color postcards to make a visual impact. Avoid too much text.
- Use very short paragraphs (three lines max); bulleted text for skimming.
- Reference your website for additional information.
